

East Akron Cemetery

Cemetery

- 4000 graves
- Sample size 5%
- 200 graves sampled
 - 4 groups of 50 graves
- Criteria
 - Gender
 - Affiliation (Freemason, Military, Religious)
 - Three time frames (1800, 1900, 2000)

Female

Male

1800's
1900's
Female

Conclusion

- 62% of all graves had no affiliation
- 22.5% of all graves were affiliated with a military organization
- 2.5% of all graves had a Fraternal affiliation (specifically Freemason or Medical)
 - Female affiliation in this category was exclusively medical and very infrequent
 - Male affiliation was almost exclusively Masonic

Conclusion

- Female military affiliation was greatest during the 1900's time frame
 - Reason: 2 world wars, Vietnam, Korea, social changes allowing females in military
 - Cemetery opened in 1853, minimal graves in 2000 and 1800 time frames
- Other generally denotes religious affiliation almost equally distributed between male and female during 1900's

Conclusion

- Military population 1,430,895 in 2010
 - Active duty
- 848,000 in reserve
- Total Military population 2,278,895
- Total population of US: 313,232,044
- Percentage of US population in military
 - 0.7275% vs 22.5% in east Akron Cemetery

Subotin Family

Founded Ohio Barber College

Barber Family

Barber Family

- George Barber, father of Ohio C. Barber who headed the largest match manufactory in the world. (O.C. Barber is buried at Glenwood Cemetery in Akron).
George Barber married Elizabeth Smith, of Canton, Ohio, on April 1, 1835. He sold clocks until 1845 and then began manufacturing matches until 1852 when he traded his factory for a hotel and was appointed postmaster for Middlebury under Pierce's administration.

Robinson Family Mausoleum

Robinson Family

- This mausoleum was built in 1916 at a cost of $16,000.00
- Founded Robinson clay products
- Manufactured clay sewer pipes
- Steinway house-Originally Robinson Mansion
 - Clay roofing
 - Built as a wedding gift for daughter

Alfred Saalfeld

- Publisher and developer of one of the largest lines of books for children in America, also inventor of games and originator of activity books for children. He always regarded as his greatest commercial coup, the signing of Shirley Temple to a contract early in her moving picture career. An avid movie fan, he saw Shirley in one of her first pictures. Her contract gave Mr. Saalfeld printing rights to everything she endorsed. Resulting in the sales running over the 50,000,000 mark of books by and about Shirley, about 40 in all.